THE FIGHT A DRAW.

Meyers and McAuliffe Meet Each Other at North Judson, Ind.

The Struggle for the Light Weight Championship of the World.

Referee McDonald Decides it a Draw After Sixty-four Rounds.

Light Sparring Tactics Pursued all Through by Both Contestants.

Meyers-McAuliffe Mill.

Chicago, February 14.—A special dispatch from North Judson, Ind., to the Chicago Times says: Mike McDonald, the well known Chicago sporting man, was chosen referee for the Meyers-McAuliffe fight for the light weight championship of the world. The battle was to have called at 9:40 a. m., but two rounds passed on the platform and declared that the fight must not proceed. After some discussion they agreed to allow a boxing match. A wrangle followed caused by the charge that McAuliffe had pocketed his hands under his gloves. This was proved false and time was called at 9:50 a. m.

First round—McAuliffe led and forced Billy to the ropes, landing his left on the latter's nose and his right on his ribs.

Second round—Blows were exchanged in which Meyers landed on Elsworth's neck getting in return a stinger on the nose. McAuliffe slipped at the ropes, saving himself from a terrific right hand swing. A foul was claimed but not allowed. The round ended with cautious sparring.

Third round—Cautious sparring. McAuliffe led lightly and then landed heavily with his left on Meyers' right cheek. Another mix up with McAuliffe rushed, making an even exchange. Billy getting in a good right hand blow in McAuliffe's face which staggered him.

Fourth round—Both were very cautious, sparring for an opening. Not a blow was struck.

Sixth round—Again both were cautious and but one blow was struck. McAuliffe's right being cleverly stopped by Meyers.

Seventh round—McAuliffe landed lightly on Meyers' mouth without any return. McAuliffe rushed Meyers to his corner, a short arm exchange resulting.

Eighth round—Opened with cautious sparring, Meyers on the defensive, as usual. Meyers led with his right which he landed on McAuliffe's mouth, following it up with his left on McAuliffe's face without a return.

Ninth round—Meyers led with his right on McAuliffe's arm. Cautious sparring followed. McAuliffe got in a straight and left in Meyers' face with out a return.

Tenth round—Same opening, but not a blow was struck.

Eleventh round—McAuliffe rushed Meyers and two short arm blows were exchanged. The round ended in a clinch.

Twelfth round—There was an exchange of short arm blows, ending in a clinch. McAuliffe again led with his left receiving a stinger in the face.

Thirteenth round—Cautious sparring for one or two minutes, when McAuliffe led, receiving a short counter in the face.

Fourteenth round—McAuliffe rushed Meyers, landing on his ribs and receiving stinging blows on the face and neck. In rushing the second time McAuliffe slipped and fell, Meyers falling on top. McAuliffe then commenced fierce matters and rushed again.

Fifteenth round—A repetition of the fourteenth round.

Sixteenth round—Opened with a heavy exchange of arm blows. Meyers caught McAuliffe a vicious right hand swing in the face, after sparring for an opening.

Seventeenth round—McAuliffe led with his left and reached Meyers' eye, but was heavily countered on the body.

Eighteenth round—Meyer's right eye showed signs of closing, otherwise both men were in good condition. Cautious sparring for wind followed for several rounds, neither man appearing anxious for matters. The blows were mostly at short range, with little damage and were followed by clinching.

Twenty second round—McAuliffe opened the round by a rush, landing left on Meyers forehead. Blows fly in a clinch. Meyers landed heavily on McAuliffe's ribs with his right. Careful sparring followed to the end of the round.

Twenty third round—Both men came up fresh and strong. Meyers' eye was getting black, otherwise neither showed any punishment. The round was a repetition of past tactics both sparring for an opening. McAuliffe finally rushed, coming in with on Meyers' nose, a clinch following which ended in a clinch.

Twenty fourth round—McAuliffe led with his left arm again and landed on Meyers' face. And got away without a return. Meyers barely missed a vicious right and left lunge which would have settled the affair.

Twenty fifth round—The round was uneventful.

Twenty sixth round—McAuliffe rushed Meyers with a rush. A short arm exchange was followed by a clinch. Both men were still in a splendid condition. After about two minutes time was called for two minutes by Referee McDonald to allow the sheriff that the mill was only a boxing match and not a fight. The sheriff left the hall after promising that if he heard that either of the men were hurt he would arrest every one in the room.

Twenty seventh round—Meyers opened without ceremony, left hander on McAuliffe's nose, followed with a wicked right hand swing on the ear. The honors thus far are even.

Twenty eighth round—The round had no remarkable point of interest to mention, save that he would not have the fight continue one minute longer as he considered it was not a boxing match but a fight. At this time 9 o'clock the fight was delayed twenty minutes before arrangements were made to continue it.

Twenty ninth round. Time was called at 9:20 o'clock with both men fresh after their twenty five minutes rest. McAuliffe rushed and falling short was heavily countered.

Thirtieth round—Meyers landed a right hand swing on McAuliffe's lips and was allowed first blood. Then followed another season of cautious work for several minutes, Meyers barely missed a vicious right and left lunge which would have settled the affair.

Thirty first round—The round was uneventful.

Thirty second round—McAuliffe rushed Meyers, landing on his ribs and receiving a counter with right upon the jaw. McAuliffe received a heavy body blow from Meyers right. McAuliffe led for the body with his left but missed and then led for Meyers' face with his left but missed again and received a light blow on neck in return.

Forty seventh round—McAuliffe led with his left for Meyers' head and again for his body with his left but both were stopped. The round was otherwise uneventful. McAuliffe just began to realize that Meyers could not be tired out.

The next few rounds were but a repetition of the foregoing. Both men were very cautious. McAuliffe then, all the fighting and Meyers cleverly stopping and countering.

Fifty third round—Both men began to show signs of weakening. In the next round however, they appeared to have pulled themselves together again and McAuliffe continued to dive for Meyers' stomach.

During the next seven rounds not a blow was struck. "McAuliffe said, "I can't fight a man that won't stand up." Meyers replied, "I'm no fighter, I'm a corn husker."

Sixtieth round—Meyers landed with his right on McAuliffe's ear, it being the first good blow in six rounds. But both went back again to their old waiting tactics.

Sixty first round—McAuliffe landed on Meyers' stomach, but the blow lacked force. Meyers seemed to be fresher but had yet to do any leading.

Sixty second round—An admirer of Meyers called out, "Don't be afraid of him Billy; he can't hurt you." The answer was, "I'm not." The plan of Meyers campaign evidently was to stay for a draw.

Sixty third round—Both followed the same old tactics and not a blow was struck.

Sixty fourth round—McAuliffe came up strong and fresh, and again took up for plan of winding Meyers and his blows were directed at the latter's stomach. At the conclusion of this round the fight was declared a draw.

Charged With Perjury.

London, February 18.—The hearing in the case of Patrick Malloy, charged with having testified falsely before the Parnell commission, was resumed in the Bow-street police court to-day. Walker, managing clerk for a Dublin solicitor, testified that the London Times had employed him to collect evidence. He had an interview with Malloy, who after much pressing, stated that he had joined the Fenian brotherhood when 16 years of age. The members he said were pledged to engage in secret efforts against the government and to convey arms for the purposes of the brotherhood. He had given 6 stand of arms to Michael Fagan, an Invincible, who was afterwards hanged. At a meeting of the Invincibles the murder of Judge Lawson was discussed. Patrick Egan was present and upon leaving he wrapped himself up in a big cloak, thus disguising himself. Egan also attended a later meeting, at which the failure of the attempt upon Judge Lawson's life was discussed. The witness said that Malloy before making this statement demurred against giving information on the ground that he would incur great danger by so doing. When the witness read Malloy's letters containing a statement regarding his admission to the Invincible organization and the oath of membership in which was the words "to lose it necessary life," Malloy became greatly agitated. The hearing then adjourned.

Epidemic Among Indians.

Winnipeg, Manitoba, February 14.—Dispatches received here last week of the breaking out of an epidemic of a most virulent character among the Indians of Cold Lake has been confirmed, and the condition of the sufferers is found to be worse than was first reported. Indian Agent Mann of Onions Lake, and Sergeant Hall of the mounted police went out to investigate a few days ago. They found that thirty deaths had occurred up to the day they reached the afflicted settlement six more were added to the list. The Indians on the Battle river reservation are suffering greatly from an affection of the throat and neck which prevents them from swallowing food. Complete extermination of the tribe is feared.

Important Patent Decision.

St. Louis, February 15.—The important decision has been made here that the control of the barb wire patents are not vested in any American firm or corporation, because the device of barbed wire was patented in France by Louis Jansa, April 19th, 1865. Under the United States law this invalidates all United States patents and it is claimed may render the supposed patentees liable for past royalties collected.

Adverse Report.

Washington, February 13.—The house committee on agriculture to-day decided to report adversely the bill introduced by Thompson of California providing for the development and encouragement of silk culture in the United States. The bill proposes to create a division of silk culture in the department of agriculture and to establish experimental silk culture stations throughout the United States.

Claims to be Consider.

New York, February 14.—Thomas C. Platt returned from Washington this morning. To a reporter he said: "I wish to say positively and you can quote me as authority for the statement that James G. Blaine has been offered and has accepted the position of secretary of state. This was accomplished some time ago by correspondence."

UNITED WORKMEN.

The Grand Lodge of United Workmen Still in Session.

List of the Officers Elected at the Afternoon Meeting.

Creditable Parade Made by the Members of the Order.

An Interesting Entertainment Given the Visitors Last Evening.

The grand lodge of the Ancient Order of United Workmen for the jurisdiction of Colorado, New Mexico and Arizona which convened in this city on Tuesday afternoon, continued its sessions yesterday in Odd Fellow's hall with Grand Master Workman John K. Shireman of Pueblo in the chair. The morning session was devoted to the presentation of documents and communications relating to the work of the order, which were referred to the several committees.

The afternoon was mainly taken up by the parade of Badito lodge, Badito degree, and the visiting delegates. The members of the first two mentioned organizations assembled at their lodge room on Nevada avenue, and preceded by the Fire Marie's band marched to Odd Fellows hall where the members of the grand lodge fell into line. The parade was quite imposing and was a credit to all who participated. The line of march as announced yesterday was followed, and excellent music was furnished by the band.

After the parade the grand lodge resumed its session, which until adjournment was occupied by the nomination and election of officers.

The following officers were elected.

Grand Master Workman, L. H. Spelliker of Leadville.

Grand Foreman, W. W. Wright of Denver.

Grand Overseer, C. H. Sporleder of Las Vegas, New Mexico.

Grand Recorder, W. P. Boyd of Denver.

Grand Receiver, J. C. Shattuck of Denver.

Grand Guide, J. J. Sweeney of Phoenix, Arizona.

Grand Watchman, J. C. Schreiver of Boulder.

Grand Medical Examiner, Dr. Jesse Hewes of Greeley.

Grand Trustee, for a term of six years, M. D. Potter of Buena Vista.

Representatives to the Supreme Lodge, Past Grand Master Workmen J. K. Shireman of Pueblo and Louis Auffinger and W. T. Boyd of Denver.

In the evening an entertainment was given in the hall by Badito lodge to the visiting delegates and the public generally which was very largely attended. Master Workman Seth Biker of Badito lodge occupied the chair. On the platform beside him were Grand Master Workman Shireman, and Grand Recorder Boyd.

After the opening ode the Rev. A. R. Kieffer was introduced, who welcomed the members of the grand lodge to the city and extended the hospitality of the loyal organization. Mr. Kieffer eulogized the order on the work which it was doing and urged all who had not done so to investigate its purposes and aims. He was glad to see much of the opposition to secret societies passing away, in the general recognition of the principles of human brotherhood which all were endeavoring to inculcate. The speaker then referred to the watchwords of the order of United Workmen, "Charity, Hope and Protection," and, mentioned the various ways in which the order was fulfilling the meaning of those words. He was proud of the name of Workman, as it typified one who was of some use, a bee in the hive and not a drone. He predicted a revolution in society, by which brains and muscle would take the place of ignorance and laziness. He alluded to the slave cost on hottest toil in certain circles, and said that if the order had wished for a large and fashionable membership it would have adopted such names as "order of modern gentlemen," or "order of dudes." In closing he extended a cordial welcome to the visiting Workmen on behalf of the members of the order in this city.

Grand Master Workman Shireman responded to Mr. Kieffer's address in a few fitting remarks highly eulogistic of the city and its people. Its climate and natural surroundings were unsurpassed, and the intelligence and refinement of its citizens well deserved for it the name of the "Modern Athens." As the representative of the visiting delegates he heartily thanked the members of Badito lodge for the hospitality accorded them.

After a violin solo by Miss Herman, which was heartily applauded, Grand Recorder W. T. Boyd of Denver was introduced as the greatest talker on the order. Mr. Boyd disclaimed any intention of seeking that compliment, though he confessed that he was heartily in sympathy with, and thoroughly devoted to the objects and purposes of the order. Mr. Boyd then gave a brief synopsis of the order, what it was and what it was seeking to accomplish. It was protective in every respect and recognized all men as equal. Nothing of a sectarian or political nature was allowed in its lodge rooms and the rich and the poor could meet on the same footing in the lodge room of the Workmen. Mr. Boyd gave a brief account of the plan of relief followed by the order which he considered infinitely superior to that afforded by any insurance organization. He urged the duty of every man to provide for his family after his death and particularly the man of moderate circumstances. He believed that such provision was the duty of the visiting delegates as well as the duty of the citizens of Colorado Springs.

The entertainment which followed was highly creditable to the performers. It was opened with a piano solo by Miss Herman, which was heartily encored. Miss Herman responded with a selection which was rendered in a very pleasing manner. Miss Herman has a fine touch and is a thorough musician. She was heartily encored. The Denver News appeared on Tuesday with an entirely new dress. It is the handsomest dress ever put on a paper in this state. The changes in the style of dress of western newspapers have been very great in the last few years. Formerly the Chicago papers looked like huge posters. The St. Louis Globe Democrat is the only paper following this hideous style. The first page is now devoted to important news and the paper is made up as a newspaper and not as an advertising sheet. The News was late in changing its make-up and for this reason the innovation is all the more to be remarked. The only criticism to be made is the way of setting the type on the editorial page. It follows an old style of the Chicago papers which has been wisely given up. The News now looks like a newspaper and it will be one if the make-up foreman will give up shuffling the news items before putting them in the paper.

Our notes this morning show that Colorado Springs is likely soon to have the activity in real estate that Denver and Pueblo have had. Heretofore, but little outside capital has come into the town. The investments have been made by people who have been living here. The great activity in real estate in Denver the last year has been caused very largely by the investment of a very large amount of foreign capital which was attracted to the city on account of its size. The same is true of Pueblo. The large dealers in Denver real estate went there and their wise manipulation of the real estate market has contributed not a little to the very remarkable boom now in progress in that city. Now, the men who have been making large investments in Denver and Pueblo have very wisely turned their attention to Colorado Springs. This morning we give the announcement of a large investment in Boulder Heights. Other investments very large in amount are being made by Denver parties, which we are not at liberty at present to state. But within a month, Colorado Springs is likely to enjoy as lively a real estate boom as either Denver or Pueblo has.

It is to be hoped that the various amendments tacked on to the high license bill will not defeat it. It is a measure that should be passed during this session. The experience of Philadelphia shows how far a high license bill may be productive of temperance and good order. One of the amendments adopted was to make ten per cent of all licenses payable to the state. One senator objected to this on the ground that an unequal amount would be taken from different places, and that nothing would be taken from Greeley and Colorado Springs. This is quite true. But now that the support of our penitentiary has run up into the hundreds of thousands, it is quite proper that those communities which are producing the largest number of criminals should bear a goodly proportion of the state tax. The most criminals come from those places where there are the most saloons, and these communities ought to pay a larger tax than communities where there are no saloons. El Paso county because of the saloons of Colorado City now ranks very near Arapahoe in the number of criminals sent to the penitentiary. This was not the case before we had the large number of open saloons in this county, and it is only just that this county should contribute to the special state tax, in proportion to the number of saloons it has.

Fiftieth Congress.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, February 13.—Hale presented the conference report on the diplomatic and consular appropriation bill which was agreed to after the statement by Hale (in reply to a question of Sherman) that the appropriation of $500,000 for the protection of American interests in Samoa was retained and that the appropriation of $100,000 for a coaling station at Pago Pago had been transferred to the naval appropriation bill which passed the senate yesterday.

The senate bill providing for the ascertainment of the amount of money expended and obligations assumed by the state of California during the Indian hostilities was on motion of Stewart taken from the calendar and passed.

The senate then proceeded to the house to assist in counting the electoral vote.

The senate returned to its own chamber at 2:25 o'clock, when Manderson on behalf of the senate tellers reported the result of the counting of the electoral votes for president and vice president of the United States.

The report was ordered entered at length on the journal.

A resolution reported from the committee on privileges and elections instructing that committee to revise the existing laws regulating the election of members of congress was taken up and Evarts spoke in its support.

After carefully going over the case and reading several telegrams etc., Evarts said that the great question was whether there was to be tolerated in this country an authority and a persistent power that was to set aside the government of the constitution and the laws. If there should prove to be an irreconcilable conflict between public opinion in Texas or in New York and the public opinion of the country at large, his opinion was that the opinion of the whole country must finally prevail.

Coke obtained the floor and the senate adjourned.

HOUSE.

The chamber of the house presented a lively scene this morning, though nothing of a sensational character was expected. The galleries were filled an hour before noon by a crowd of spectators eager to witness the ceremonies attending the counting of the electoral vote. Ladies were in a large majority. Many ladies were upon the floor of the house pleading with members for passes to the already overflowing galleries. Beside the speaker's chair was placed a box for Senator Ingalls who on payment of one of the ushers was to preside over the joint assembly. At noon the speaker's gavel knocked for the house to come to order and the chaplain made an appropriate prayer.

After the routine business was completed at 1 o'clock the legislative proceedings were suspended and the senators headed by Ingalls and the chamber Captain Bassett entered the hall and ranged themselves in front of the speaker's desk. The speaker then announced that the senate had come to the house for the purpose of counting the vote of the electoral college from Alabama, handed it to Senator Manderson one of the tellers who read the document. It was in the proper form and showed that the ten electoral votes of Alabama had been cast for Cleveland and Thurman. The certificate gave in minute detail the proceedings of the meeting of electors in Montgomery and contained the ballots cast by each elector for president and vice president. It was accompanied by a statement from the governor of Alabama certifying to the election of the electors therein named. The reading consumed seventeen minutes.

Thereafter the reading of the returns was discovered with and the tellers after inspection merely announced the result in each state. Oregon having been reached the presiding officer said: "The president of the senate has received two certificates and two other papers purporting to be certificates from the state of Oregon and as required by law opens them all and delivers them to the tellers who will read, if there be no objection, only that which is authenticated by a certificate of the electors duly certified by the governor of the state of Oregon and directed to the two houses of congress by the secretary of state."

There being no objection Senator Manderson said that the tellers had examined the different certificates presented to them and found but one in duplicate certified to by the governor of the state of Oregon over the great seal of that state. It appeared to be in due form and by it it appeared that Benjamin Harrison of Indiana received three votes for president and Levi P. Morton of New York the same number for vice president. The reading of the returns was then completed and footed without further incident.

The presiding officer upon receiving the result said: "The vote for president of the United States is now declared to the president of the senate as follows: Whole number of electors appointed to vote for president of the United States, 401, of which a majority is 201. Benjamin Harrison of the state of Indiana received for president of the United States 233 votes and Grover Cleveland of the state of New York received 168 votes." In like manner and with the same majority the election of Levi P. Morton of New York to be vice president was declared and both were directed to be entered in the journals of the senate and house.

The joint session then dissolved and the house resumed consideration of the Smalls-Elliott contested election case.

Hemphill spoke at great length and in a sarcastic vein.

At the conclusion of Hemphill's remarks and after some debate by Tarsney, Cutcheon and others, Rowell closed the debate for the republicans saying that notwithstanding all the assaults made upon it Robert Small's majority of 120 votes still lived.

Crisp in concluding the argument for the majority said that there was nothing about the southern elections that was not as fair and as well calculated to secure an untrammelled expression of views as in any other section.

Johnston of Indiana, tried to interrupt but Crisp told him that in a state where they resorted to "blocks of five" perhaps they had better look at home before they went abroad.

This remark brought Indiana republicans to their feet in indignant protest, but Crisp declined to permit any interruptions and in the midst of an uproar his time expired.

Then a scene of tumult and confusion ensued. The main aisle was thronged with members from both sides who kept up an incessant demand for the regular order, while Crisp attempted to have his time extended and Indiana republicans continued their demand for an opportunity to reply.

The speaker protem (McCreary) attempted vainly to quell the tumult and was finally compelled to call the sergeant-at-arms.

Then Crisp asked leave to extend his remarks in the record but Johnston of Indiana objected unless he could be given the same privilege.

Leave was finally granted Crisp to extend his further remarks however and a vote was taken on the motion to recede from declaring Smalls entitled to the seat. It was rejected by a party vote with the exception of Wilson of West Virginia and Russell of Massachusetts who voted with the republicans.

The majority resolution seating Elliott was then agreed to without division and the house adjourned.

Colorado Legislature.

SENATE.

DENVER, February 13.—In the senate this morning Senator Wilson's Lizzie Lease bill, which was under consideration yesterday afternoon, when it was decided in such a manner that the purpose for which it was introduced could be defeated, was again called up.

Carpenter moved that the bill be referred to the printing committee.

Wilson asked that it be referred to the [illegible] committee, which was agreed to.

It was moved and seconded that S. B. No. 56, regulating the supreme court be recommitted and after considerable discussion upon the motion the bill was referred back and made the special order for Friday.

H. B. No. 59 providing punishment for cattle thieves, [illegible] for the [illegible] of all farm and [illegible] houses together with several other bills were considered in committee of the whole and referred to the committee on revision.

HOUSE.

The house, after hearing committee reports proceeded to the [illegible] and passed the following:

S. B. No. 46, creating Morgan county out of the southeast quarter of Weld. The emergency clause was stricken out.

S. B. No. 50 [illegible] the [illegible] law so as to require that all [illegible] over $200 shall be [illegible] by [illegible] the lowest bidder.

H. B. No. 49 providing [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]
